The story of Ymir

Aurgelmir, also called Ymir, in Norse mythology, the first being, a giant who was created from the drops of water that formed when the ice of Niflheim met the heat of Muspelheim. Aurgelmir was the father of all the giants; a male and a female grew under his arm, and his legs produced a six-headed son. A cow, Audumla, nourished him with her milk, Audumla was herself nourished by licking salty, rime-covered stones. She licked the stones into the shape of a man; this was Buri, who became the grandfather of the great god Odin and his brothers. These gods later killed Aurgelmir, and the flow of his blood drowned all but one frost giant. The three gods put Aurgelmir's body in the void, Ginnungagap, and fashioned the earth from his flesh, the seas from his blood, mountains from his bones, stones from his teeth, the sky from his skull, and clouds from his brain. Four dwarfs held up his skull. His eyelashes (or eyebrows) became the fence surrounding Midgard, or Middle Earth, the home of mankind.

From Your Minister of Arts & Sciences

Greetings Ravens!

The tourney season is coming upon us and that is a wonderful opportunity to show off banners, chair covers, table cloths and other A&S projects. I would encourage everyone to make their field presence look as fabulous as possible.

Our A&S nights have been going well. February's project is site token painting for our upcoming Birthday. This will be at Michael's on Feb 6 from 6:30 - 8:30. March's A&S will be about writing award recommendations and will be held at Their Excellencies' home on March 19.

My warrant as Minister of Arts and Sciences expires in January 2021. If you are interested in this position and furthering the arts and sciences in the Cove and Atlantia, please let me know.

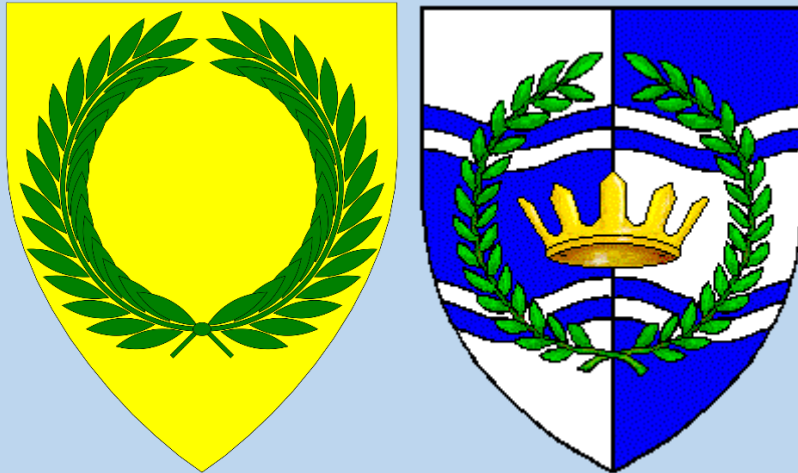

Yr eiddoch yn gywir,

Olwen

From your Warlord

Good Ravens, The time approaches once again for we coastal warriors to gather our numbers and travel inland, away from the sea which gives us strength. We travel to the neighboring land of Windmaster's Hill. There they gather for an Allthing at the beckoning of our Konungr...our King. Whereat he and his Queen shall name a new Drottnar...Baronage. Long has the land of the Wind Master been our ally. Let us travel in great numbers to show our support and renew our alliances.
